We will be more than happy to assist you.The shadow cabinet have been meeting in secret today to discuss Labour's post-election conference. The purpose is for the front bench to move quickly to agree the official line on the Labour leadership contest, which will be decided by MPs and MEPs in September. There will be at least four candidates, most likely five, but some are not willing to rule out a deal with Corbyn, particularly Hilary Benn. There is a growing consensus that if Corbyn loses a vote of no confidence, the party will support another candidate at its autumn conference. I'm told that the process is going to be "democratic, not top down", but the leader's office is expected to have a strong influence on the selection process. Corbyn himself is expected to make a statement shortly after the meeting, which will be followed by a press conference with the leadership contenders.Q: Does not knowing the derivative of an inverse function lead to its invertibility? Does it make sense to talk about the invertibility of a function  $f$ , when we don't know its inverse? In particular, let  $\mathbb{R}^3 \rightarrow \mathbb{R}$
